

DO I NEED DRUG AND ALCOHOL DETOX?

If you experience strong withdrawal symptoms on trying to quit the substance, are using a substance that have a strong overdose profile or have tried and failed to quit in the past. Detox is designed to help you stay safe and comfortable during withdrawal.

That means detox is the right choice if you're either concerned about the symptoms, have relapsed in the past, or symptoms are actually dangerous. For example, withdrawal symptoms for benzodiazepines and alcohol can be extremely dangerous without medical support. Withdrawing from amphetamines can also be dangerous, especially in terms of mental health side effects and trauma. And, even "easy" to withdraw from drugs like opioids can cause life-threatening symptoms like dehydration.

We Provide The Medical Care, Medication, And Ongoing Support You Need.
